∴ OVERVIEW

RAZ drops EVERY LIGHT A LIE, a hard-edged, emotionally scorched album transmitting from deep inside the rat-wired ruins of Faewave. It's not an album - it's a resurrection. This is the sound of a ghost installing malware on your childhood. Jungle. Noise. Dirty nostalgia. Core memory breaches. It's weaponised emotion in 9 tracks.

∴ LORE / BACKSTORY

Rebecca died. RAZ woke up. Born of signal rot and the corporate collapse of everything we trusted, RAZ isn't just a persona she's a weaponised afterlife. Her world is built on false lights, abandoned chatrooms, and the memory of care bears who saw too much. The album "Every Light A Lie" is canonically part of the FAEWAVE mythos (The Endless Chronicles), existing as a digital scream from the Midnight Zone a realm of broken media and forgotten futures.

∴ VISUALS / ART DIRECTION

The entire album is visually anchored in corrupted childhood aesthetics. Dollcore meets dirty cyber. Rats. CRT monitors. Blood on teddy bears. Fonts that scream like 1998. RAZ is represented visually as a corrupted doll with riot-girl eyeliner and deathcore teddy bear friends. Think: Garbage Pail Kid who grew up and read Baudrillard.
